From the Co-Editor:

Well, we missed it by that much.

Actually, I think we did pretty well getting at least close to our new deadline, all things considered. After some back and forth with our Esteemed Publisher, we set a goal to get the Gazette assembled like the Avengers by the second weekend of the month. This is the “adjustment phase” issue, where we get there, but not quite. Finishing this up on a Monday after that second weekend... well, there’s going to be a bit of a fudge factor, yes?

In any case, we move forward with our effort to include more fan activity, and if you’ve got information on events in your area, especially related to fan organizations, we’d love to hear about them in letters and e-mails so we can make the Gazette as robust a report as possible with regard to fandom. We’d love to have more articles as we did last ish with the Stargate fan efforts to save Martin Gero’s new series at Amazon.

While cleaning up in the basement the other day, I ran across a hand-written list of science fiction and fantasy television shows and movies that had been produced over the years. Some of them I’ve never seen beyond a commercial or poster, but I’m sure each of these projects have fans. I would expect that to be the case, also, with novels and short stories.

You’re likely a fan of something relatively obscure, something most people have never even heard of. These days, when people are casting about for new stories to enjoy, what would you recommend? What are some titles in your collection, or in your collective memory, that other people should definitely sample post haste? Give us your suggestions in a letter!

~ Jason

LETTERS

Dear Mindy:

Hello from the land of Those Nasty Canadians, and I have a rather nasty loc to relay to you on The N3F Fan Gazette, Vol. 6, No. 3. Watch out, elbows up! (I don't really blame anyone for this nonsense. In fact, the US media might not be covering this trade dispute at all.)

My loc... as I say, I keep finding little conventions to list, but I fail to find SF cons up here. All want a con, but no one is willing to actually get a new one started...except for us. We are planning a fannish reunion for 2027, and a full convention in 2028. More details as we think them up. The main instigator, and chairman of both these events, is Yvonne.

Thank you for listing Rob Sawyer's book launch at Bakka-Phoenix Books on September 12! I intend to be there and have some fun.

Here is something I've been sending to editors for future issues...I don't want them to be repetitive, but there really isn't a central zine that everyone reads. I have some Amazing Stories content in The Pulpster 35, and in the 2026 First Fandom Annual. In The Pulpster 35, there are articles about AS's 100th anniversary, and I respond to questions from former Pulpster editor and old friend Tony Davis, and in the 2026 First Fandom Annual, I also respond to questions, but it's more in the form of an essay, and there are pictures of me and friends at the Merrill Collection AS event this past April 29.

A new project that Yvonne and I are working on...Mythcon. This annual convention, sponsored by The Mythopoeic Society, was held in Oklahoma this year, and will be Toronto in 2027, Mythcon 55. We are assisting Society Convention Steward Tim Lenz (who happens to currently live in Toronto) with getting a convention hotel, and Yvonne will work with Tim on Canadian accounting practices. On site, Yvonne and I may be in charge of the Vendors' Room. Mythcon usually gets anywhere between 100 and 300 people, but I can see 300 or more next year, for there are lots of Canadian fans who have been starved for any kind of convention that is fan-run, rather than pro-run. More Mythcon 55 information to come.

That's about it for right now. Many thanks for these issues!

Yours, Lloyd Penney.

- Aveyard, Victoria. Tempest. [The Lyrian Sea]. Voyager, 42.00 hc.

The Meridian Empire is bent on reclaiming the wealthy colonies and crushing the pirate republic. Ship after ship is captured, except for the one captained by the legendary Valerian Kane. Alex and her allies can hunt them, but it's only a matter of time before the gates to the underworld open and they face a war they cannot win. To stop it, they'll have to reach deep into the secrets of Yale and its societies, and discover the truth hidden in Alex's own blood.

- Benitz, Mir. Fire Power. Little Brown, 25.99 tp.

The Silverscale Grand Prix is the national championship of dragon racing. Asta and her dragon Carmine are unlikely competitors - no sponsors, no high-tech gear, no fans out in the stands. Not to mention that a female rider hasn't won the Prix for nearly 60 years. But Asta is determined to prove everyone wrong: the training school that kicked her out for fighting a classmate, her family who wished she'd never left the farm, and, most of all, her infuriatingly arrogant childhood-best-friend-turned-rival Felix, the poster-boy heir to the Seraphin racing dynasty and reigning tournament champion.

- Bhathena, Tanaz. Witch Daughter. Grand Central, 39.00 hc.

Rumours of witchcraft follow Princess Tahmineh like a storm cloud, making it impossible for her to secure herself a marriage or any kind of future. Tahmineh seeks out a prophecy, from which she learns she will fall in love with a warrior of great renown named Rostam and bear him a son. Though she is warned this match is a dangerous one for her, she acts so that fate unfolds as foretold. At the peak of her joy, Tahmineh gives birth to Sohrab, Rostam's son. Max has no desire to uproot her busy life in the city to return to a place that always made her feel inadequate, but she can't ignore her mum's last request. So, she decides on a trial run of two weeks - if she can't even last that long, then a year would be impossible...

- Boey, Meihan. The Enigmatic Madam Ingram. [MISS CASSIDY #2]. Perennial, 24.99 tp.
